Completed 4 months technical training course in Data Science-AI on regular mode. During this training period I learnt python programming, tableau, Microsoft Excel. I acquired knowledge of programming, Data Visualization, study of pivot tables, OOP concepts and Data Analysis through this training.

Academic Project-Model Urban Behavior

Data generated on location-based social networks provide rich information on the whereabouts of urban dwellers. Make use of probabilistic model to reveal how venues are distributed in cities in terms of several features. Analyze data from location-based social networks with the goal to understand how different locations within a city are associated with different kinds of activity/events–and to seek similar patterns across cities.
